

THE NONDADEN WINE

Jack Dempsey Defeats Billy McCarthy.

The Australian Outfought from Start to Finish,

But Makes a Game Struggle Through

Twenty-eight Rounds.

Dempsey's Generosity Toward His Vanquished Adversary in the Closing Round—The Australian Used Up.

By Telegraph to The Times.
SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 18.—[By the Associated Press.] Over two thousand enthu-passion of the California Athletic Club to-night to witness the great battle between the middle-weight, Jack Dempsey, and Billy McCarthy. Hiram Cook was referee. Jack McAuliffe and Denny Kelleher were behind Dempsey, and Jimmie Carroll and Ed. Glavin behind McCarthy.

conditions of the contest were that the men should weigh under 156 pounds, and when they appeared in the ring tonight M-Carthy was a little under that figure and Dempsey a few pounds lighter than his adversary.

When the principals stepped into the ring they were received with rousing cheers. The nights were announced as follows:

dent Fulda announced that it had been discovered that the gloves prepared for the contest had been tampered with, and nearly half an hour was consumed in remedying this before the men were ready to face each other. Time was called at 9:30.

In the first round Dempsey caught Mo-

In the second round Dempsey caught McCarthy savagely in the face twice, and then gave him a terrific right-hander on the body. McCarthy landed lightly on Dempsey's neck.

In the third round McCarthy caught another left-hander in the chin, followed up on the nose.

In the fourth round McCarthy followed Dempsey closely, but the Nonpareil's left found the Australian's neck half a dozen times without return.

From the sixth to the ninth rounds Dempsey found McCarthy's wind with some telling blows, the latter occasionally landing a blow on the Nonpareil's cheek or ear.

In the twelfth round McCarthy repeated this, and again caught Deunsey on the nose. He made several savage lunges, but fell short and received a short-arm jab on the chin.

From the thirteenth to the sixteenth

The sixteenth was the liveliest round up to that time, and when it closed there were loud cheers for Dempsey. He landed on the Australia's body and jaw about as pleased. The latter's eyes and cheeks began to puff up, and when the round closed he was evidently groggy.

The conditions remained about the same until the twenty-second, when McCarthy turned completely around and struck Dempsey heavily on the stomach, receiving

Little or nothing was done in the twenty-fifth round, but in the twenty-sixth Dempsey went at it in earnest to finish his man. Three or four terrific right and left-hand blows on the Australian's neck made the latter exceedingly groggy, and then Dempsey hit him when and where he pleased.

drunken man, and although Dempsey continued to rain blows on his neck, he still kept his feet, until the "Nonpareil," in pity for his victim, asked him to give up. McCarthy refused, and, as the round was about to close, Dempsey would not punish him any more, but took him by the arm and let him go to his corner, and, before he could

McCarthy came forward in the twenty-seventh just able to stand on his feet. A blow in the face sent him to the floor. He arose with blood streaming from his nose and mouth, and Dempsey again sent him down. McCarthy rose a second time and Dempsey begged him to give up. McCarthy still re-

He fell a third time, but rose in eight seconds. More entreaties on Dempsey's part still met with a refusal from the Australian to give up, and Dempsey knocked him down a fourth time. He struggled to his feet in time to save a knock out, and the round closed. McCarthy was led to his corner covered with blood and loud cries himself defeated, and Dempsey beat him into a corner and sent him down in a heap. He rose again and leaned against the ropes for support. Dempsey walked up to finish him, but turned to the referee and declared he had not the heart to punish the man any further. Just then Paddy Gorman, M.

When the gong sounded for the twenty-eighth round McCarthy staggered to the center of the ring and Dempsey implored him to give up. The wildest excitement prevailed all over the building. Mingle cries of "Knock him out, Jack," and "Give it up, McCarthy" were heard everywhere.

On the Sioux Reservation.
CHAMBERLAIN (S. D.), Feb. 18.—Official of the Land Office, together with a force

T. C. Sherman has just returned from 4 miles in the interior, bringing fine samples of the shale. Sherman represents a syndicate

The Lottery Men Die Hard.
ST. PAUL (Minn.), Feb. 18.—The Pioneer Press' Bismarck (N.D.) special says:

the lottery bill will introduce a new measure tomorrow to provide for the payment to the State of $250,000 per year instead of $75,000. One of the strongest opponents of the measure said he thought the report correct and feared the result, as he did not think the lottery people would make another attempt.

Fanz to Be Cared For.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Henry J. Fanz, the victim of the Aberdeen outrage, has been recommended by Supt. Porter for a appointment as special agent of the eleven corded indebtedness.

masterly and prophetic letter "of Surrender" to the Mayor of Atlanta.

After the surrender at Appomattox, and when you were commander-in-chief of the army, you were asked to make a recommendation for a friend, Gen. Slocum (one of your right bowers), upon you in Washington, and when conversing with you suggested that "the Presidency was within your command" if you would accept it.

You replied that you did not want it; that your ambition was satisfied, but that your brother John was an aspirant and you would be pleased to have him get it.

I replied, I had voted over one hundred and fifty times for you, and I thought you would prefer him to any man in the Presidential chair; that he had had more experience in executive, administrative and legislative business than any statesman in living, and would make the best President.

He said, "Well, but I have not the last the flight of time, I fear, is probable.

How evanescent is fame save in your case, who, in your glorious march, have reaped the laurels of military renown and Napoleon, and proved that the enemy in war might recruit his forces and supply his commissariat in the enemy's country. Forgive me, I am old.

I commenced to write to congratulate you upon your health and the recurrence of your birthday. God bless you! How happy you should be!

The three very conspicuous and great figures of history now living are Gladstone, the oldest; Bismarck, the next; and you, the youngest. The first represents the present monarchy, empire, aristocracy and power; you republicanism. The latter will be dead, esto perpetua, when they have been destroyed.

Your career, greater than Wellington's, Napoleon's or Marlborough's, will live fresh in the memories of the people when theirs will be forgotten.

Yours truly, Frederick Douglass can. You, as the embodiment of it, and the greatest general and statesman now living, should this year make a tour through Europe and Asia, on your way home visiting the scenes of your early triumphs in civil life—California, receiving all the congratulations and salutations of the peoples of the world, before you wrap the draperies of your couch about you and lie down to pleasant dreams." My admiration for you this day exceeds that for any other man living in the country.

Yours sincerely, J. M. HASKIN.

To Gen. William T. Sherman.

ANTI-CHINESE

A Mule Who Thinks then Mules

There is a little mule out in one of the section camps on the line of the Yuma division of the Southern Pacific that is causing considerable trouble, and will probably have to be shot. It is not an uncommon thing for dogs to take sudden and bitter dislikes to the Chinese race. In this city there are about a dozen dogs who will "tackle" every Chinaman who comes along the

This particular mule has been in the employ of the Southern Pacific Company several years, but he got it into his head only a few months ago that he wanted to live on Chinese flesh, and how it is not an uncommon thing for him to lay out three or four Chinamen a day.

He is very friendly with all the white men in camp, but as soon as a Chinaman puts in an appearance, he makes for the unfortunate, and if he is harnessed up and can't kick, he will make a dive for poor John, and ten chances to one he will get away with some portion of the heathen's clothing.

1906 Hamilton and several other officials are considerably worried over the mule's antics, and if the animal can not be sold, he will have to be shot, for it is only a question of time when he will kill a Chinaman.

BAD-IGNACIO.

He Courts a Row and Gets Locked Up.

Last night a young Mexican named

Ignacio Mercado tried to raise a row in a saloon at the corner of Buena Vista and Walters streets, but the men in the place, seeing that he had a pistol, declined to accommodate him, but, instead, reported the case to Officer Fay, who, on searching Mercado, found a revolver in his pocket, whereupon he placed him under arrest and sent him to the police station, where Mercado is regarded as a rather dangerous man. He came to Los Angeles with the Mexican Opera Company something over a year ago, and, when the company disbanded, he remained here with one of the chorus girls. He has figured in several scrapes, and some time ago was arrested for trying to shoot the woman, but got out of this by paying the costs.

the woman refusing to prosecute him. Since then he has been playing the piano in various houses of prostitution, and relieving the monotony by making himself generally objectionable.

RIVAL STREET FAKIRS.

The Soap Man with a Loud Voice Ahead.

The police are just now considerably exercised over a rather peculiar case.

There are a couple of medicine peddlers in the city, and also a street vender of soaps, who has set himself up as a rival against the medicine men. The soap man can talk louder than the others, and when the medicine peddlers take up a position on a street he takes a position near by, and by raising a great hue and cry attracts the crowd to his stand, leaving the medicine men without an audience. Last night they were on Court street, and the rivalry became so strong that Sergt. Morton was called on by the medicine men to muzzle the soap man, which he declined to do, on the ground that one has as good a right to the streets as the other. A test case will probably be made of the matter.

The Democrats are organizing for the fall campaign. There was a lively meeting in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce last night, and a regular old-fashioned lovefeast was held. The curbstone lovers of the party are confident now that they will be able to make a clean sweep. They say the Republican party is at war in its own ranks, and they do not believe things can be patched up between now and uniform in line, under command of the Chief and Captain, and presented a fine appearance. After the inspection the men were marched up Fort street to Franklin, down Franklin to Spring, down Spring to Second, and up Second to the police station, where they disbanded. There is a marked improvement in the bearing of the men since the regular drills and inspections were commenced, a fact which was generally commented on.

The regular monthly inspection of the police force was held yesterday morning on Third street, between Fort and Hill. There were 70 men in full uniform in this unit.

THE WORLD'S FAIR.

MRS. PRESIDENT HARRISON AND OTHERS DISCUSS IT.

Mrs. Harrison Thinks Woman Should Have a Place on the Board—Mrs. Secretary Windom Believes Otherwise—Mrs. Atty.-Gen. Miller Wants a Separate Women's Board.

(Copyrighted, 1890.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 12.—[Special Correspondence of THE TIMES.] With in the past two weeks a remarkable interest has sprung up all over the country as to the part which women shall have in the World's Fair. The wives of the Senators, Supreme Court Judges and of the Representatives in Congress have already taken active steps in the matter, and a petition signed by 110 prominent Washington ladies has just been presented to Congress, asking that there shall be one or more women representatives in the fair's board of managers. A society of women has been organized to push the interests of women as regards the fair, and the probability is that the great exhibition will give a better display of women's work and women's possibilities than any exposition of the past.

The society is called the Isabella Memorial League, after Queen Isabella of Spain, whose purpose made it possible for Columbus to discover America. The views of these leading ladies as to the position of women regard to the fair and as to the effect which it will have upon her future are widely different. I have interviewed the most noted of the women of Washington in regard to the matter, and called first at the White House and saw

THE PRESIDENT'S WIFE.

I asked her as to her interest in the World's Fair. Mrs. Harrison replied:

"I have certainly the greatest interest in the movement. There are many women who should take an active part in it—women who have not many other cares, and who are capable and willing. It is an honor to womanhood that there are many such in this country now. In my position, of course, I can do nothing, but those who have lighter cares should do everything in their power to make it a success, and I can think of many a woman who would make an excellent executive officer if Congress should appoint a woman on the executive board.

MRS. HARRISON.

"There are many things a woman cannot begin to do as well as a man, but the work that will be required for the fair seems especially fitting to her nature, abilities and education. Take a home, for instance. A woman always arranges and manages it. This fair is in some sense similar. It will require taste, economy, a vast deal of hard work, and what man is as tasteful, economical and painstaking as a woman? It is a woman's right, not women's rights."

"Will it not benefit women greatly?" "Yes, but it is not to help women that I think they should be represented, but to make the celebration a success, and whoever can best bring that about should be called upon to act."

MRS. SECRETARY WINDOM is a courteous, thoughtful lady, and although she said she had little time from her other duties to think of the current topics, her short talk showed her ability to discuss any subject.

"It was a pitiful sight to me," said she, "to see the crazy quilts and corded pin-cushions at the centennial celebration and to be told that they represented women's work. I would rather that the World's Fair would pass without an representation than such a one. If any woman has done anything that adequately represents an industry or an art, I believe her work should be shown, not because she is a woman, but because her work represents an advance. Consequently I do not think there should be an especial woman's department. I have not read the petition which the ladies sent to Congress, as I have been very busy, but as a general thing I think a management composed entirely of men or entirely of women works better than a mixed one. I am not in favor of women asking anything on the ground of their sex, for I think in this age every one can do just what they have the ability to do. If we have advanced much, and have much to show, our work will appear in the World's Fair and no clamoring for our rights will make it any better."

THE ATTORNEY GENERAL'S WIFE WANTS A WOMEN'S BOARD.

"I have not given the subject any special thought," said Mrs. Atty.-Gen. Miller, "but, judging by other things, I think one woman on an executive board would be a nuisance. She might be just as capable as a man, but her life makes her have different views on many subjects; and then if any quarrel or trouble should arise, the world would at once say that it was the woman's fault. It will be the safest, if not the most glorious course, to allow men to manage any executive board that may be organized. There is so much else that women can do much better than men that it will be well for them to stick to their own line of work. I believe the arrangements for the New Orleans exhibition were satisfactory, and there women had a distinct board, managed one part, and did it so well that they were universally praised. But one woman on this board and one on that will keep affairs in hot water, and will give men an opportunity to place any blame or quarrel on the one poor woman's shoulders. Let them work together, and if they are called upon, give any advice, but this thing of meddling in men's work I do not approve of."

WHAT MRS. MCKEE THINKS.

Mrs. Robert McKee is in favor of any means that will make the fair a success, whether it be by the management of men alone or by the united efforts of men and women.

"The influence of the centennial exhibition," said she, "was shown as much in the homes as in business and commerce. I have read somewhere that every home in this country became more beautiful, and that there was a marked increase in home decoration after 1876. Of course it might only be in the way of a picture, badly painted perhaps, or a ludicrous attempt at decoration; but whatever it was it showed that women were trying to beautify their homes. The World's Fair will do much more than the centennial in this line, and I should think if women are to reap so much benefit they ought to have the pleasure of doing some of the work. I do not know what plan they will adopt, but whatever it is I think every woman should do her best to make it a success. I hope it will be found advisable to have women on the board of management, whether or not they will be able to do much in aid."

SUSAN B. ANTHONY'S VIEWS.

"At the centennial celebration of the First Congress, at which Chief Justice Fuller delivered the oration there was not even a flag displayed in the House of Representatives where the great assembly was. Do you suppose if one woman had had anything to do with that she would not have ferreted out the stars and stripes that hung in the First Congress and draped that flag above the speaker's head?" Susan B. Anthony uttered the words that I have just quoted, and the grand old lady's eyes shone in her gray eyes that should warm opponents of women on World's Fair committees to stand firm under.

MRS. SENATOR SHERMAN.

"I believe that there were no lady members of the board of managers of the centennial celebration," said Mrs. Senator Sherman, "and although they did a great deal of work they received no recognition or honor. That is the reason I think ladies should already begin to take an interest in the World's Fair, so that they may be ready to unite on any plan that will secure proper representation. I signed a petition to Congress because it seemed an excellent method for the time."

MRS. SENATOR HAWLEY.

is a member of the Isabella Memorial League, and she thinks that Congressmen will save themselves future annoyance by listening to the plea of the women now. Said she:

"The simplest way to recognize the share women will perform in the World's Fair is for Congress to allow the appointment of women as members of the executive board. It is not a case of the equal rights of women at all, and I do not care whether there is one woman or two, or as many as there are men, on the board. But one thing should be done. I think the best way to do it is to have a committee of ladies, and let them have an admirable one to follow in this case, and it will disarm all criticism or meddling if it is done. I do not in the least think an executive board—if such a body there be—should appoint a committee of lady managers, but whatever women have anything to do with it should be appointed by Congress. I cannot conceive how any one would criticize such a course. Women have experience in managing, and we all know that before the affair is over that they will have done half the work; consequently, they should be recognized from the first. I am only afraid everything has begun too late, and the time will be lost before it has been decided upon, commissioners from each country have to be appointed, and when that is done there will hardly be a year for arranging the exhibits, and that alone should occupy three years. Perhaps if we had had something to do with it already there wouldn't have been so much wrangling about a location, but the fair itself would have been long since decided upon." Mrs. Hawley treated the criticism of the name of the women's organization lightly. "Papers must have something to fill their columns," said she. "There was no war when the name, 'Isabella Women's League,' appeared; consequently some one had time to stop and criticize our choice, because Queen Isabella was not in all things what a woman of today is. We cannot measure women of the past by our own yardstick. Isabella may have started the inquisition, but she has not been against Columbus, but the fact remains that she sold her crown jewels to start him on his voyage. Columbus discovered this country—that is all we ask about him, and we never think of following up his life to see if he did other things we consider wrong. It is the act, not the woman, we glorify."

MRS. SENATOR QUAY.

I next called upon Mrs. Senator Quay. She said:

"I signed the petition asking Congress that women should have some representation on the board of managers for the quadri-centennial because it seemed to me right that they should have. I have not given much thought to the subject, and have not even settled in my mind where I think it ought to be, but I can easily say that women should have some official recognition, for they will do much of the work, as they did at the centennial."

MRS. SENATOR VANCE.

The southern women have as pronounced views on the World's Fair as the women of New England. Mrs. Senator Vance gives a North Carolina view. She said:

"I am in favor of women having much to do with the World's Fair, and if a petition to Congress asking for representation on the board of management was thought the best method, I hope it will succeed. I signed it because it seemed to me as an excellent way of bringing up the subject and making people think about it. I do hope every woman in the country will be able to go through the World's Fair in 1892 without having to turn away their faces that they may not see a screen standing here and a fat cushion leaning there, with fine little gestures of disdain, 'as representations of women's work. Women's work: There is hardly an industry or trade in which they have not done well, and from them they should be well represented. When I think of the crocheted bobbins I blushed over in the last centennial. I became indignant, and hope that women will do something in 1892 worthy their marked advancement. If Congress does allow the appointment of women on the executive board it will, of course, be a difficult thing to find the right women, but will it not be equally difficult to find the right men? Rare executive and managerial ability are as hard to find in men as in women, although I have a shadow of a prejudice that women the oftener possess it, as they do a great deal of quiet managing in this world. They are trained to it. Fairs, charities and such organizations are cheerfully managed more economically by women than by men, and I do not see why they should not have a share of the management of the World's Fair. People who can do things in this world should be called upon to do them, and beneath the trivialities of the discussion of woman's ability to take part in the fair, I do not see how any one dare deny that underneath it all there is the right."

Now Mrs. Vance is a tiny bit of a woman, with soft brown eyes and a winning face, but she grew tall, her eyes flashed, and her face became the embodiment of justice as she used the word "dare." No man would have wanted to dare if he had seen her, for he would have been vanquished, not by force, but by principle.

"This affair belongs peculiarly to women," she continued, "for in spite of all criticism the only one that made Columbus's discovery a possibility was a woman. The question is not raised what else that woman did, but her one act put her above caviling. Can people who criticize her point out or find one other woman in the fifteenth century who was her equal? If they can it will then be her equal to discuss Queen Isabella's other characteristics."

MISS GRUNDY, JR.

East Side Notes.

A young man by the name of Farr, who came to East Los Angeles for his health some time ago, is bleeding at the lungs and has become very much reduced. His recovery is despaired of.

The flood of Sunday night did some damage to the Glendale dummy line bridge across the Arroyo Seco. The bridge was repaired yesterday and trains were running regularly last evening.

Mr. Strange returned yesterday from Seattle, where he has been stopping for the past few months. He is a well-known figure in the city.

There are some cases of destitution in the city which should be attended to at once. A Mrs. Bell of 906 New Main street and her large family of children are in a suffering condition. They have been kept up by private families, hoping that something would be done by the organized societies. These kind-hearted people cannot stand the strain any longer, and ask the public to respond.

The Chamber of Commerce will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock. A full attendance is desired, as the question of sewers is to be the matter for consideration. Also a report from the Committee on Parks is expected to be presented.

Glendale Items.

GLENDALE, Feb. 16.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] We feel as though we are just becoming well known, and all are jubilant over the influx of strangers and the bright prospects before us. Purchases are being made daily for permanent homes. Great many are making extensive improvements, and every one is beautifying his place. It looks now as though it would not be long till we have one of the prettiest suburbs of Los Angeles.

A Los Angeles buyer has secured the oranges from the large orchards of Judge Ross, Capt. Thom and H. J. Crow, and is now busily engaged in shipping them east.

Joseph Beaser's two acres of young hawthorn will net him $800 this year.

Gilbert S. Wright, a young man of Los Angeles, purchased last week from Byram, Patterson & Miller five acres near the depot, intending to plant the entire lot with orange and otherwise beautify it.

The concert given by the pupils of St. Hilde's Hall, Wednesday night, was a pronounced success. A large number were present from Los Angeles, a special train being sent from Los Angeles for that purpose.

The residences of Mr. Mullaly, the brickman of Los Angeles, and Mr. Richardson are assuming proportions rapidly, and when completed will be the handsomest in the valley.

J. F. Shiver of Iowa has purchased 15 acres adjoining Mr. Miller's home, and will improve it at an early date for his home.

PERSONALS.

Carl Miller, of Mendocino City, passed through S. F. recently. He says "Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla entirely cured his liver and kidney trouble."

Robt. L. Perry, Assistant Superintendent, Pullman Palace Car Company, while in California last summer, did not suffer with his usual headache. He gave Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla as the preventing agent.

C. A. Bushnell, of the Murphy Building, Market St., S. F., suffered with indigestion and nervousness for some years, till Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla came to his relief. He now recommends it to everybody similarly afflicted.

Mrs. Dr. J. H. Mason, of No. 1033 Market St., S. F., whose trouble was chronic biliousness, says of Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla, "It acted on the liver and kidneys, and I am steadily improving."

A. W. Rogers is a wholesale shoe manufacturer, at 765 Mission St., S. F. He says "Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla cured his indigestion and dyspepsia."

GORDAN BROS.

THE LEADING TAILORS,

118 South Spring Street,

Opposite the Nadeau Hotel,

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

BRANCH OF SAN FRANCISCO.

OPENING

OF OUR

Spring and Summer Novelties

SUITS AND TROUSERS.

SUITS MADE TO ORDER

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

The finest and largest stock of Woollens in the city to select from.

Effect fit and best of workmanship guaranteed.

CHESTER'S ENGLISH KIDNEY PILLS.

The most reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. It cures all kidney troubles, such as Gravel, Rheumatism, Dropsy, etc. It is a household remedy, and is sold by all druggists.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM.

Keeps the hair soft and healthy. It is a household remedy, and is sold by all druggists.

THE RAYMOND.

AMONG THE ORANGE GROVES OF THE BEAUTIFUL SAN GABRIEL VALLEY, 8 MILES FROM LOS ANGELES.

C. H. MERRILL, Manager during the summer season, of the Crawford House, White Mountains, N. H.

If you cannot go to the Raymond and spend a day, a week, or a month, or the whole season, then go out and stay a few hours. It is a most wonderful view from the Raymond, and the view from the Raymond is a most wonderful view from the Raymond.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York. There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

SELLING OUT IN TEXAS.

In Order to Concentrate His Means in Los Angeles.

The following from the Waco (Tex.) News of February 11th, in regard to a resident of Los Angeles, is indicative of his belief in southern California and the city he has chosen for his home:

Sanford Johnson closed a big trade yesterday. He sold Proctor Springs and the Johnson tract to a syndicate for $27,600. Mr. Johnson has virtually closed a trade for the last bit of Waco property he owns. It is 85 acres on Park avenue, near the new Female College. The figures have not been settled yet, but it is understood that $25,000 was the price. This price is very low, as land just across the street is selling at $800 per acre. Mr. Johnson has made the largest single sales ever made in Waco. The sale of the springs and his homestead is the largest since he sold the Driving Park. Mr. Johnson is now making his home in Los Angeles, Cal., and wishing to consolidate all of his Texas property. The new owners will probably have their purchase laid off into town lots, and put them on the market. Proctor Springs is the prettiest park site in the vicinity of Waco, and it is to be hoped that it can be preserved for that purpose.

New Artesian Wells.

The Riverside Water Company recently struck the heaviest artesian flow of water ever found in Southern California. A well of nine-inch pipe at a depth of 155 feet struck a flow of water 872 inches under four-inch pressure, or nearly eight cubic feet per second. A 15-pound stone thrown into the top of the pipe was thrown out by the force of the water. The well was sunk with nine others on a tract owned by the company on the Santa Ana River three miles south of San Bernardino. Ten wells give over nine hundred inches of water, eight cubic feet per second, and will irrigate 45,000 acres of land.

Glendale Items.

GLENDALE, Feb. 16.—[Correspondence of THE TIMES.] We feel as though we are just becoming well known, and all are jubilant over the influx of strangers and the bright prospects before us. Purchases are being made daily for permanent homes. Great many are making extensive improvements, and every one is beautifying his place. It looks now as though it would not be long till we have one of the prettiest suburbs of Los Angeles.

A Los Angeles buyer has secured the oranges from the large orchards of Judge Ross, Capt. Thom and H. J. Crow, and is now busily engaged in shipping them east.

Joseph Beaser's two acres of young hawthorn will net him $800 this year.

Gilbert S. Wright, a young man of Los Angeles, purchased last week from Byram, Patterson & Miller five acres near the depot, intending to plant the entire lot with orange and otherwise beautify it.

The concert given by the pupils of St. Hilde's Hall, Wednesday night, was a pronounced success. A large number were present from Los Angeles, a special train being sent from Los Angeles for that purpose.

The residences of Mr. Mullaly, the brickman of Los Angeles, and Mr. Richardson are assuming proportions rapidly, and when completed will be the handsomest in the valley.

J. F. Shiver of Iowa has purchased 15 acres adjoining Mr. Miller's home, and will improve it at an early date for his home.

PERSONALS.

Carl Miller, of Mendocino City, passed through S. F. recently. He says "Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla entirely cured his liver and kidney trouble."

Robt. L. Perry, Assistant Superintendent, Pullman Palace Car Company, while in California last summer, did not suffer with his usual headache. He gave Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla as the preventing agent.

C. A. Bushnell, of the Murphy Building, Market St., S. F., suffered with indigestion and nervousness for some years, till Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla came to his relief. He now recommends it to everybody similarly afflicted.

Mrs. Dr. J. H. Mason, of No. 1033 Market St., S. F., whose trouble was chronic biliousness, says of Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla, "It acted on the liver and kidneys, and I am steadily improving."

A. W. Rogers is a wholesale shoe manufacturer, at 765 Mission St., S. F. He says "Joy's Vegetable Sanaparilla cured his indigestion and dyspepsia."

GORDAN BROS.

THE LEADING TAILORS,

118 South Spring Street,

Opposite the Nadeau Hotel,

LOS ANGELES, CAL.

BRANCH OF SAN FRANCISCO.

OPENING

OF OUR

Spring and Summer Novelties

SUITS AND TROUSERS.

SUITS MADE TO ORDER

GREATLY REDUCED PRICES.

The finest and largest stock of Woollens in the city to select from.

Effect fit and best of workmanship guaranteed.

CHESTER'S ENGLISH KIDNEY PILLS.

The most reliable pill for sale. Safe and sure. It cures all kidney troubles, such as Gravel, Rheumatism, Dropsy, etc. It is a household remedy, and is sold by all druggists.

PARKER'S HAIR BALM.

Keeps the hair soft and healthy. It is a household remedy, and is sold by all druggists.

THE RAYMOND.

AMONG THE ORANGE GROVES OF THE BEAUTIFUL SAN GABRIEL VALLEY, 8 MILES FROM LOS ANGELES.

C. H. MERRILL, Manager during the summer season, of the Crawford House, White Mountains, N. H.

If you cannot go to the Raymond and spend a day, a week, or a month, or the whole season, then go out and stay a few hours. It is a most wonderful view from the Raymond, and the view from the Raymond is a most wonderful view from the Raymond.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

There are many interesting features—especially the grand display of flowers in the hotel grounds, which are under the charge of Mr. C. H. Merrill, the celebrated landscape gardener, formerly of New York.

"Paris Exposition, 1889."

Pears obtained the only gold medal awarded solely for toilet SOAP in competition with all the world. Highest possible distinction."

PAINLESS BEECHAM'S PILLS EFFECTUAL

For Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness, and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushing of the Face, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Sleeplessness, and all Nervous and Bilious Affections. BECHAM'S PILLS, taken as directed, will quickly restore females to complete health.

WEAK STOMACH; IMPAIRED DIGESTION; DISORDERED LIVER; For Bilious and Nervous Disorders, such as Wind and Pain in the Stomach, Sick Headache, Giddiness, Fulness, and Swelling after Meals, Dizziness and Drowsiness, Cold Chills, Flushing of the Face, Loss of Appetite, Shortness of Breath, Sleeplessness, and all Nervous and Bilious Affections. BECHAM'S PILLS, taken as directed, will quickly restore females to complete health.

Prepared only by THOS. BECHAM, St. Helena, Lancashire, England. Sold by Druggists generally. B. F. ALLEN & CO., 365 and 367 Canal St., New York. Sole Agents for the United States, who, if your druggist does not keep them, will mail BECHAM'S PILLS ON RECEIPT OF PRICE 25 CENTS A BOX.

GROCERIES

Retailed at Wholesale Prices.

TELEPHONE 546. HALL & PACKARD'S 341 & 343 SPRING ST.

QUOTATIONS NO. 2:

14 pounds best dry granulated Sugar.....	$1
--	-----

Pasadena Edition.

Times

WEDNESDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 19, 1890.

BY MAIL, $9 A YEAR.

BY CARRIER: PER MONTH, $75.

IN PASADENA
THE TIMES is served regularly by carrier, at an early hour every morning, to the residences and business places of citizens, at the same price charged in Los Angeles.

The Pasadena Edition is now published every day, and the matter on this page runs through the entire issue; so that Pasadena and her advertisers get the full benefit of the Times circulation.

The Times

PASADENA DAILY EDITION.
BRANCH OFFICE, NO. 204 E. COLORADO ST.

NOTE AND COMMENT.

CLEARING SKIES.
There are about ten applicants for every position, except that of Councilman.

FORTUNATE is the man who wanteth nothing, as in all probability he will not be disappointed.

THE artesian well on Orange Grove avenue, which has been at a standstill for several weeks, will soon start in again on its downward march to the antipodes.

PASADENA should and probably will be represented at the fair in Los Angeles, which is to open soon. The committee of Pasadenaians appointed is a representative one, and could hardly be improved on.

THE Park Commissioners met yesterday and made their report to a representative meeting of citizens at the Board of Trade rooms. The several propositions were read and discussed pro and con, no decision being arrived at one way or another. The original commissioners will wait upon Mr. Shorb and obtain his ultimatum, and report back, and then a committee of five will solicit stock for the company, a large sum, it being understood, being proposed if the Shorb offer is accepted. The matter has settled down to the Shorb and Painter tracts, and it is also said that Mr. Painter will prepare grounds and a track at his place whether it is selected or not, the fact that it is on the Cross line being suggestive that it would probably be available for some purposes. So Pasadena will have at least one park and possibly two.

It is reported that 17 lawyers are preparing to sue the Prohibitionist organ of this city in the interest of 17 clients, who were defamed, libeled and attacked in an alleged bloodthirsty manner in the last issue of the organ. We trust in this city at least for a few weeks. The press of the city is now worked up to such a frenzy that a single word may involve us in the horrors of the commune. The editor of the Standard may have few prominent characteristics, as our esteemed contemporary, the Star, states, and these may be loathsome, as he asserts. Of this we are only informed by hearsay, but this we do know, the Standard some time ago was presented with a lot located, we believe, in the Grogan tract (this is not the orphan's Grogan), a number of fine orange trees, and a pistol. Two of these donations are in the nature of weapons—the lot is probably kept up in the Grogan tract, but the pistol, the Standard states in unequivocal language, is at the natural history store; in other words, ready for use. If our esteemed contemporary, the Star, goes too far and arouses the sleeping lion in the Standard office, what is to prevent the editor from rushing readily forth and deeding that lot in the Grogan tract to him. Diabolical as such a method of attack might be, it might well be expected after reading the editorial of our esteemed contemporary. So, while there is yet time, we urge a halt, counsel forbearance.

TODAY is Ash Wednesday, the beginning of Lent, a season of especial interest to Episcopalians, and more or less observed by many denominations, especially in the East. It is an ecclesiastical season of praying and fasting, literally the fast of 40 days, which begins with Ash Wednesday and ends with Easter Sunday, the period commemorating the 40 days' fast of the Lord in the wilderness. Lent has long been known in the Greek Church, and includes 48 days; and we find reference to it in the Latin Church as early as the fourth century. Irenaeus tells us that the custom was old in his day, but that there was no regularity or method. Tertullian was of the opinion about Christians should commemorate by a religious fast the time during which "the bridegroom was taken from us." From Socrates we learn that in his day the Romans fasted three weeks before Easter, Saturdays and Sundays being omitted. From the same authority we learn that in Illyria, Greece and Alexandria the period of abstinence exceeded six weeks, and in some places seven weeks before Easter, though the actual observance was at intervals of three periods of five days each. Cassian informs us that this is a tithe of the year. Leo I. states that the fast of forty days is held on apostolic authority. Gregory the Great in one of his homilies gives the number of days as thirty-six. We find the same statement in the Corpus Juris Canonici with this change, probably made about the eighth century, that make up the forty days dedicated to the fasting of our Lord, the four days preceding Quadragesima Sunday were taken in. The early history of the exact history of the fast which begins today is then shrouded in mystery, but in all probability finds its prototype in some of the observances of the pre-Christian era. In the matter of observance there is a difference of opinion, but perfect abstinence from all food every fasting day, until evening is absolutely required, in theory or practice. Public worship, with frequent communion, are also among the forms to observe. Public amusements are prohibited, and the good man or woman is supposed to devote time to charities and devotion—in other words, make the period, as much as possible, a time of personal spiritual inspection and examination.

SOCIAL SPHERES.

SOME PLEASANT EVENTS THAT CROWD IN CLOSE ON LENT.

Unusual Activity in Pasadena Society—Miss Greenleaf's Card Party—The Channing German—Hops at the Raymond and Webster.

Pasadena society has been unusually active the past week, numerous pleasant social events having been scheduled for the days immediately preceding the beginning of the Lenten season.

Miss Greenleaf's card party Monday evening at the residence of Seymour Locke, corner of Grand avenue and Lock Haven street, was a delightful occasion. "U.K.R." and drive what were the games played. Mrs. C. F. Holder and H. H. Sussesserott won the first "U.K.R." prizes, and the second went to Miss Wotkins and Mr. Goodhue. At what Miss Locke and William Sussesserott took the first prizes, and the "boobies" were Miss Wells and Mr. Shoemaker. The parlors were handsomely decorated with flowers. Elaborate refreshments were served. Among those present were: Mr. Scoville, Miss Wotkins, Miss Wells, Miss Bradley, William Sussesserott, H. H. Sussesserott, William Sussesserott, Mr. Goodhue, Miss Locke, Miss Dexter, Miss Senter, H. S. Channing, Mr. and Mrs. C. F. Holder, Miss Taylor, Miss Wilde, Miss Pierce, Dr. Brown, Dr. J. M. Radebaugh, Judge Van Doren, B. Marshall Wotkins, Mrs. Coates, W. S. Gilmore, Mr. Shoemaker, Miss McBride.

The third of the series of Germans that have been given since the holidays at the residence of Dr. Channing, on Orange Grove avenue, came off last night. There was a larger attendance than at either of the two preceding dances, and all the dancers wore masks, and many of them had on fancy costumes. During the short order of dances that preceded the German masquerade took pains to conceal their identity. Partners were chosen for the German masquerade on a blind guess, but rumor has it that some had the thing all planned out beforehand. This bold, bad assertion is, however, not credited by the more conservative. Walter Wotkins introduced a series of interesting pretty figures. Among those present were: Mr. and Mrs. Walter Wotkins, Mrs. W. M. Masters, Mrs. Stetson, Miss Channing, Harold S. Channing, Miss Senter, Miss Hurlbut, Mr. Shoemaker, Miss Shoemaker, Miss Bradley, Miss Emily Bradley, Miss Trem, Miss English, Dr. J. M. Radebaugh, Dr. Sherk, Miss Sherk, Austin Campbell-Johnston, Conway Campbell-Johnston, Mr. Lindsay, Miss McBride, Mr. and Mrs. Caldwell, C. S. Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Granger, Mr. and Mrs. Marshall Wotkins, Miss Wotkins, Miss Wells, Mrs. Winslow, Mr. Scoville, Mr. and Mrs. F. F. Buell, Mr. and Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Gilmore, Mrs. Gilmore, Mr. Scoville, Mr. Scharr, Mr. Ball, W. S. Gilmore, Mr. Knight.

Interest in future social events centers in the German bachelors propose to give at the Webster some time soon. A meeting of those interested was held yesterday, and the following committees were appointed: On invitations, W. U. Masters, P. A. V. Van Doren, C. S. Martin, W. S. Gilmore and Mr. Goodhue; on supper, Dr. J. M. Radebaugh, H. H. Sussesserott, Mr. Shoemaker, Mr. Huse, Austin Campbell-Johnston; on music and dancing, C. A. Scharr, Mr. Scoville, Mr. Outwaite. Much interest is manifested by the bachelors in the event, and it will come off to a certainty. Although the exact date has not yet been determined upon.

The Monday evening informal hop at the Raymond, although not very largely attended by Pasadenaians owing to the bad weather, proved a very enjoyable. The Webster's hop booked for last night was postponed until Friday evening, in order to secure the services of Fries's excellent orchestra.

ABOUT THE HOTELS.

How the Week is Going at the Raymond and Webster.

Last night was given over as usual to cards at the Raymond. Tonight there will be a bowling match and on Saturday evening the regular weekly full-dress hop. Friday night cards will again be in order. It is announced that a German will be given about March 1st.

The shuffleboard on the west veranda and the big telescope on the south porch are called into frequent requisition, especially on rainy days when visitors are reluctant to venture farther from the house.

There are evidently some cases among the younger guests where Cupid is getting in his work. Some say it is only flirtation and the parties most interested would tell.

THE WEBSTER.
Owing to a prior engagement of Fries's Orchestra the hotel hop was postponed from last night to Friday evening. The proposed bachelors' ball will rival in interest the one given by the Valley Hunt. Bachelors when they get started have a way of doing things in proper shape, you know.

Mr. Orndoff gave a pleasant euchre party in the ballroom Monday evening. Among yesterday's arrivals were H. A. McCrany and wife, San Francisco; C. W. Findley and wife, Philadelphia; Fred C. Smith, Los Angeles; A. Williamson, Oakland; Mrs. W. H. Holden, Chicago; E. B. Galusha, Minneapolis; Miss L. S. Watson and wife, Leicester, Mass.; T. J. Lewis, Denver.

COMPANY B.

Uniforms and Rifles Here—To Attend a Lecture Friday Night.

Company B's uniforms have arrived, much to the delight of the members. The first batch was distributed last night at the armory, and the other half of the men will get theirs tonight. The rifles are also here. On Friday evening next the company will attend a lecture of Comrade Jordan of Los Angeles on the "Origin and History of the American Flag," to be given in the University Church. The men will wear fatigue uniforms. Monday night a civic organization

BREVITIES.

The sunset was a gorgeous one. Here's hoping the rain is over. There was a wash on the Santa Fe.

The gas street was turned on and the beach fire lighted yesterday. Washington's birthday, which falls on Saturday next, is a legal holiday.

It tried hard all day to clear off, and toward evening there were hopeful signs of success.

Keep your ears turned to the south. The whistle of the Cross engines will soon greet them not exactly the kind of a day to brag about, but we hope for good weather soon.

The Syme horse case still has the floor, and the horse still lives, whether or not it has the glanders.

Dr. Van Slyke will deliver the first of a series of six lectures on physiology at the Los Angeles school. He will receive $100 a month for his services.

Borough Council will meet at 9:30 o'clock, Friday morning, the regular meeting day, Saturday, being a legal holiday.

Prof. J. C. Dunster has received the appointment of instructor of music in the Los Angeles school. He will receive $100 a month for his services.

Dr. Michener has purchased the Wallace house, on South Marengo avenue, from Mr. Roberts of Los Angeles. He will make it his residence.

Mrs. Hannah Thorne, who died Monday, was buried yesterday afternoon at the Los Angeles cemetery.

The father of Dr. Thomas Riggs is lying dangerously ill with pneumonia. City Clerk Campbell was in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon on matters of business importance.

M. E. Wood announces himself a candidate for reelection to the position of City Treasurer on the basis of no salary and no commissions for his services.

PERSONALS.

Mr. Outwaite left yesterday afternoon for a trip north.

The father of Dr. Thomas Riggs is lying dangerously ill with pneumonia. City Clerk Campbell was in Los Angeles yesterday afternoon on matters of business importance.

M. E. Wood announces himself a candidate for reelection to the position of City Treasurer on the basis of no salary and no commissions for his services.

LIBRARY MATTERS.

Dr. Channing, who is a member of the Library Committee, told a Times representative yesterday that matters looking to the completion of the unfinished building were being prosecuted with all possible dispatch. The roof was inspected on Monday, and the necessary repairs were ordered to be made without delay. Architect Rohrig has completed the specifications for plastering and plumbing the building, and fitting it up with necessary light and heating apparatus. Advertisements are published for bids for this part of the work, all proposals to be handed in prior to March 1st at 10 a.m. Complete plans and specifications will be prepared shortly for all work necessary to put the building in shape for occupancy.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

SUDDENLY CALLED.

Earl Reddick Dies of a Sudden Hemorrhage.

Earl Reddick, first book-keeper of the First National Bank, died suddenly of hemorrhage of the lungs about 12 o'clock Monday night at the residence of Henry Newby on Park street.

Mr. Reddick died of his usual day's work at the bank Monday, and returned to his place of residence in the evening without complaining of feeling unwell. When Mr. Stewart, who also holds a responsible position in the bank and who boards at Mr. Newby's residence, returned home shortly before midnight, Mr. Reddick called to him for some salt, exclaiming he was raising blood. Just as the salt was being handed him, a volume of blood burst from his lungs, and in a very few minutes he died in the arms of his friend.

Mr. Reddick was a young man of exemplary character, and was one of the most trusted of the employees in the important institution with which he was connected. He came to Pasadena for the benefit of his health in 1886. The sudden hemorrhage which caused his death was the first he had suffered since coming to Pasadena. He was in the 35th year of his age. His remains will be shipped for interment to Knightstown, Ind., where his parents reside. The news of his death will come as a severe shock to his many friends here.

WHOSE IS IT?

An Interesting Letter Picked Up on the Street.

The following letter was handed to a Times representative yesterday with a request that it be published with a view of discovering the person to whom it is addressed. The interesting missive was picked up on the street and is dated Pasadena, February 14th, 1890. It is published verbatim, at length, at punctuation:

Dear Willie: You have addressed me in plain and earnest language and I feel it my duty to give a candid and positive answer to your proposal without delay. I cannot accept your offer. As an acquaintance I have found your society agreeable but have never thought of you as a lover. It is, therefore, utterly impossible that I can respond favorably to your offer of marriage. Thanking you for the honor you have done me, but at the same time, I am sorry to consider your offer finally declined. I beg to remain ever your friend.

(Signed) M. B. Gilmore.

By calling at the Times office and proving ownership the letter will be handed over and no unnecessary questions asked.

AT THE SAN GABRIEL.

An Enjoyable Hop at this Popular Hotel.

Notwithstanding the rain Monday night the hop at the Hotel San Gabriel was well attended and an altogether pleasant affair. Among those present were H. B. Hertel and wife of Pasadena and C. S. Gilbert and wife, W. W. Howard, Mrs. M. B. St. George of Los Angeles. Over twenty couples participated.

A piano has now been placed in the ballroom, so that a dance can be arranged at any time on short notice. Among other recent guests were Prof. Woolsey and wife of Yale College.

SOCIETY.

Miss Coates gave a pleasant whist party yesterday afternoon, at her home on Grand avenue.

The following ladies were present: Mrs. Huges, Mrs. Colwell, Mrs. Walter Wotkins, Mrs. Littlefield, Mrs. Cooley, Miss Emily Bradley, Mrs. Webster Wotkins, Mrs. Hull, Mrs. C. F. Holder, Miss Greenleaf, Mrs. Cecil, Mrs. Taylor, Miss McBride, Mrs. Liddle, Miss Locke, Miss Hurlbut, Miss Wells and Mrs. Willard.

A course of six lectures on physiology will be given at St. Margaret's School during Lent, the first to begin today.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor of THE TIMES.] Under the heading "Farm Topics," in THE TIMES of the 13th inst., occurs what might seem to be a fair explanation of the recent fluctuation in the price of sweet potatoes, as set forth in my article, "The Farmer and Commission Merchant," in THE TIMES of the 9th inst. On general principles the writer of the explanation is right; yet if he had carefully read my article he would have seen that the sweet potatoes that sold not long ago at 25 cents a sack were "first-class potatoes," and not frozen ones. The commission man was particularly to inform me as to that fact.

In reply to the suggestion that the farmer should himself store his produce till the price advanced, I think the original article answered that quite effectively, as follows: "And furthermore, they (the farmers) know perfectly well that just so long as any potatoes remain in their hands, the commission man will keep the price down." It is not till the last sack of home-raised potatoes is gone and importations begin that there is any decided rise in price.

That is the great trouble here. The market is regulated, not by supply and demand, but by a few dealers, who seem determined not to pay a fair price for any produce raised in this region. If we had legitimate commission houses here, it would be different. The so-called commission merchants are all dealers. They buy and sell entirely on their own account. And, as long as they can buy a pound of home-raised produce, "the price is delivered."

ELIZABETH GRINNELL.

Carlisle, Pa.

LETTERS FROM FARMERS.

"Farm Topics" Answered.

COLEGROVE, Feb. 18.—[To the Editor

